MR. COBB'S LOSS TWELVE THOUSAND

His Big Barn Was Saved With Its Valuable Contents.

SPLENDID DWELLING BURNED,

A Picture, Taken During the War from Church in Fredericksburg, is Offered for Return from a Hartford, Сопп., Мап.

(Special Dispatch to The Times.) FREDERICKSBURG, VA., Nov. 22-Full particulars of the large fire on the estate of Delegate W. L. Cobb, in Care-line county, show that the big farm with its valuable contents, which was reported as destroyed, was saved. The facts are as follows: Mr. Cobb lost his fine residence, which was one of the largest in the journty and contained eighteen rooms, together with all of the furniture. Six large outbuildings were also consumed. The total loss was over $12,000. There was $3,000 insurance on the residence and $1,000 on other build-

Mayor M. G. Willis and Postmaster John M. Griffin, of this city, have each received from Mr. Ira E. Forbes, of Hartford, Conn., a communication, with a copy of the Hartford Post, containing an account of an interesting painting which was taken by a Northern captain after the bombardment of Fredericksburg during the Civil War. The Post describes the painting thus: "The sub-ject is the Saviour in the Garden of Gethsemane on the night of his betrayal. Gethsemane on the night of his betrayal. The apostles, Peter, James, and John, have been overcome with sleep. The figure of an angel, holding the cup from which the Lord has prayed to be relieved, is represented in the midnight skies. The Saviour himself is in the attitude of supplication. It is understood that the painting is an altar piece in one of the Fredericksburg churches." It is stated that the work of art will be returned to the owner if he can be found. Mr. Griffin says he thinks the painting was taken from St. Mary's Catholic Church here and will investigate the case. If he succeeds in establishing the fact that it was taken from the Catholic Church in this city, he will ask for its return.

A HANDSOME ESTATE.

Mr. George Purvis, a wealthy gentleman of Minnesota, who some time ago purchased several fine adjoining farms in Stafford county, near this city, and threw them into one estate, is remodeling the residence on the "Little Whim" place and building additions to the same, with a view of occupying it as a permanent home for himself and family as soon as the improvements are completed. At the entrance to this property he has already completed an artistic design of rustic masonry, giving the pretty country place a picturesque appearance.

The Fredericksburg Milling Company is building an addition to their mills here, made necessary by increasing business.

After several choice selections by the College Orchestra, com-posed of both young ladies and young gentlemen, and the artistic rendering of a sweet sole by Miss Winn, of the music department, the interesting play of a sweet solo by Miss Winn, of the music department, the interesting play claimed the attention of the interested gathering. The two young ladies who so well sustained their parts, showing decided talent, were Misses May Rowe and Sallie Carter, and the gentlemen who formed the remainder of the cast were Professor Ben Rosebro, Messrs, Edgar Gammon and Hugh Russell, all of whom took their parts well, and the occasion was in every way a success. The proceeds were for the benefit of the College Athletic Association.

FARMER HIS OWN LAWYER.
In the Ninde-Rogers libel suit in the Circuit Court of King George this week, judge Daniel A. Grimsley, of Culpeper, presiding for Judge J. E. Mason, which resulted in a hung jury, the novel scene of Mr. Rodgers, a farmer, without legal training, managing his own case without counsel, formed a unique feature.

Mr. W. R. Sale, of Caroline county, raised on the 55 acres of the "Racefield" farm this year 400 barrels of-corn, with only one pair of mules to do the work. He made on the whole farm 900 barrels. Miss Sallie Quesenberry, formerly of Spotsylvania county, was married a few days ago at San Jose, Cal., to Mr. L. A. Phillips, of that place.

Mr. Joseph Baker, of Orange county, now nearly 34 years old, had a severe fall recently, striking the small of his back heavily upon a stone. He is still unable to walk, but will probably recover.

Mr. John H. Cutter, of this city, has been appointed to a position with the American Cotton Company, in New York city.

Mr. W. E. Brooks, of Falmouth, shot a hawk that measured three feet and mx inches from tip to tip of its wings. Mrs. Anna Shackelford, widow of Rev.

J. Green Shackelford, at one time rector of Trinity Church here, with her daugh-ter, will spend the winter in this city. Cards have been received here for the marriage of Mr. Horace C. Chisholm, e-Hanover county, to Miss Inez Hawthorne Scott, daughter of Rev. and Mrs. Charles P.
